MSP'S Giving Votes Away

A story that has slipped under the radar of many people of our lands is that the devolved parliament of Scotland is giving the right to vote away to refugees. How long before the other devolved parliaments follow suit as a big gesture against the UK parliament.

In February, the parliament passed the Scottish Elections Bill. The bill means that foreign nationals with leave to remain can vote in all Scottish elections. Also, as part of the bill prisoners who are serving less than 12 months now can vote in Scottish elections.

Thankfully, an amendment made by the Scottish Greens was rejected, they wanted to give asylum seekers the right to vote as well.

This was a landmark bill as it needed a super-majority which meant that it needed two-thirds to vote in favour for it to be passed. This was achieved with 92 to 27.

This has given refugees a bigger incentive to reach our shores as now they can come here and stand in elections and turn Scotland more like where they have come from and taking more rights from the Scottish people.

The SNP want independence and by allowing these refugees to vote they can use it as emotional blackmail to gain their support to make sure they achieve their goal of dividing our lands.

Scotland's government happily promote that they welcome refugees and resettled 20,000 Syrians in just 2 years. How many more will they take in.

Most countries in Europe do not let Foreign nationals vote in their national elections but several do let them vote in local elections. The Scottish parliament have perhaps out done themselves with this move because if they ever do gain independence, they have given foreign nationals the power to vote and be elected in national elections. So, undermining the say of the Scottish people.

Also, by giving some prisoners the right to vote. The Scottish parliament have appealed the European Court of Human Rights as they have often ruled against the UK blanket ban on prisoners losing their rights to vote when they are sent to prison.

Sadly, as National Socialists we know we can never gain power via the ballot box but this type of thing happening is nailing the coffin shut and is damaging our own.

The Independence that the SNP doesn't want to talk about

The SNP has been going through a rocky period of late. Alex Salmond's issue with the party that he once led, has not helped the party, nor the growing split between factions within it.

Yet with all those issues, the SNP are on course to be at last, a majority government, whereas at present, they are a minority government, propped up by the Scottish Green Party with its few MSP's.

We cannot mention the SNP these days without Sturgeons demands for yet another indie vote. Barely a day goes by without it's mention. Yet with all that fanfare from the SNP, there is an independence within an independence issue, one, that the SNP does not want to talk about, which is the growing support in the Shetland Islands, for an independent Shetland Isles, should Scotland gain independence from the UK.

A few months ago, the Shetland Isles Council, voted 18 votes to 2 to explore the options for achieving "financial and political self-determination", one that would break away from Sturgeons fake utopia.

The Isles has a distinct difference to much of Scotland. It's Shetland dialect, its Viking and Norwegian ancestral history has blended an ethnic Shetland people, distinct from that of mainland Scots.

During the last once in a lifetime Scottish Independence referendum, the Shetlands, voted heavily to remain in the UK, with 63.7% in favour.

The Shetlands have seen cuts to its budget from the SNP minority government and that has fuelled the growing feeling, that an independent Shetland would be far better off financially, without Scotland.

Sturgeon and the SNP are not too keen in allowing the Shetlanders the same vote that the SNP demands for Scotland. Why, financial reasons.

An independent Shetlands would become very well off, with the oil and gas fields, that would come under its control and the revenues generated. Revenues that would send the SNP's independent Scottish yearly budget into the red.

In media reports, it is reported that, one local Councillor Ryan Thompson said: "Can anyone sitting around this table – and indeed remotely – honestly say that we have not witnessed almost a complete erosion of our democracy, ironically since devolution?"

Certainly, over the last three years, I have seen a noticeable and sizeable difference – more and more decision-making powers centralised, more and more ring-fenced funding, more and more decisions being thrust upon us for us to make and then for us to find the funds to make them.

"Powers (have been) centralised, local authorities – precisely at a time when we could have been used to our advantage – have been disenfranchised, ignored and overlooked by Government at every step." End

It is up to the national press in Scotland and the UK, to talk up the Shetland Isles position, to make SNP members realise that an independent Scotland would eventually mean an independent Shetlands, with a massive loss in Scotland's revenues.

The media needs to talk up the real possibility, that an independent Shetlands, may very well then re-join Wales, Northern Ireland and England as part of the United Kingdom and that scares the life out of Sturgeon and her groupies. Don't forget that the Shetlands voted 63.7% to remain in the UK.

For many Shetlanders, they see their future in the UK, rather than an EU controlled fake independent Scotland,

Ulster At The Crossroads

"Worst of all (from the standpoint of Britain's enemies), there is in The small population of Northern Ireland an uncomfortably large number of people who have not been lulled into political semi-consciousness by the soporifics, diversions, bread & circuses of our modern push button civilisation, but who, on the contrary, care enough about the future of their community and its national heritage to lift themselves out of their armchairs and go out on to the streets and work and if necessary fight for that future and its heritage."

The words of the late John Tyndall taken from "The Eleventh Hour" mark a man who understood the Ulster question, the troubles and why the Westminster regime were so eager to jettison what was and is an integral part of the U.K. Though written years ago the MO remains the same, after all it suits the cosmopolitan scoundrels behind ZOG if not only it were to be rid of Ulster, but it's people, its territory could be used as a bargaining chip in the world of global politics & world finance. An economic unitary Ireland under the aegis of the European Union would be but a staging post to political unification and British withdrawal abandoning the Ulster British to the same fate as the white Rhodesians who were similarly bamboozled & betrayed, that both peoples were to be handed over to the tender mercies of Marxism didn't cost ZOG to lose much sleep.

However unlike the Rhodesian folk I contend that the machinations toward the ultimate surrender of Ulster's territory and people will not be an affair watched to telly by an apathetic and disinterested British populace lulled to sleep by decades of liberalism and political correctness.

Already Police Scotland are aware of unease amongst folk there who have connections, cultural and political, with Northern Ireland and as witnessed over the combined leftist & BLM failed attempts to cause chaos up north, this too isn't a constituency as Scottish Patriots and loyalists took to the streets to thwart the political and ethnic aliens from their attempt to destroy a proud and deeply felt British heritage. These folk are ethnically identical to those living in Ulster and both are and will be a major impediment to the third world republicanism espoused by the odious Nicola Sturgeon and the cultural Marxist SNP.

As the deepening effects of the economic border in the Irish Sea are felt by shoppers & consumers from Belfast to Ballinainch, Larne to Londonderry, so grows the anger in the loyalist community, what the Marxist insurgents of PIRA failed to do in 30 years of murder & mayhem, sneaky politicians, British, Irish & European are doing behind closed doors in a silent and deliberately calculated agenda of firstly starving the NI market of goods & services whilst planning on a gradual & measured basis of improvement based upon our territorial inclusion in the EU superstate, but a step away from the political inclusion of Ulster in the Irish inclusion as an EU satellite.

Loyalists end support for Good Friday deal

When you reread Tyndall's words it is obvious as to why they wish to be rid of Ulster, essentially, they have been playing the long game of changing demographics combined with a political & economic system, increasingly global in its scope. However, unlike John Tyndall, it is also self-evident that the globalist and the political mandarins simply do not understand either Northern Ireland, nor the character and calibre (a rather apt description) of Ulster folk.

We are the people that guarded the walls of Derry, the folk that sailed to the new World & built America, the soldiers who died bravely at the Somme, the orphans, widows and widowers who wept as our people were buried in the soil of Ulster, the victims of the IRA killing machine, yet they think they can sign away our heritage, sacrifice and achievement in a dirty and duplicitous deal with a clique of international bankers and politicians? They are blinded by greed, profit and power, but they face something greater, the very real and very living idea of blood and soil, something which is not for sale and something they cannot buy or understand.

The good Friday agreement of 1998 was essentially a con, but a sellable one in which both the constitutional position combined with an end to violence was touted, 23 years later we see that this was but a means to an end, militant loyalism was persuaded to sign up, but has now withdrawn its support, indicating that whilst military measure is not on the table, no longer will they be patsies for the end phase.

On a racial nationalist perspective, prior to 1998 we had a homogeneous, mono-cultural society, essentially the race issue didn't come into the equation, nowadays our towns are teeming with migrants, who areas given over to the strange and alien peoples who now call Ulster their home, for those who have an interest in such matters it is inescapable that such migration was targeted in what you might term hard line areas, towns where militant loyalism predominated, towns that were solid politically, so it suited if such areas could be diluted thus were magnets for unwanted and uninvited multiculturalism. Will a multiracial utopia continue to flourish with political uncertainty? After all these racial strangers owe no loyalty to anywhere, they are transitional and certainly in this day and age, surplus to requirement. To say that frustration with these aliens and interlopers is becoming more vocalised has not gone unnoticed by both British Movement supporters and others keenly aware as to the toxic effects of globalist multiculturalism.

The lessons of the past are certainly lost on the political elite, but they should understand that we will not go quietly into that dark night!

Spain

Migrants coming into the Canary Islands and Spain

A 36-year-old woman was gang raped by 4 North African migrants after stopping to talk to them about their situation.

The 4 suspects who had recently arrived on the Spanish Holiday Island from the Maghreb region have been arrested. The suspects are between 18 and 35, media reports described the alleged victim as either an Irish expat or coming from a Nordic Country. The 4 migrants had set up camp in the Agua La Perra park in the town of Mogan.

Spain has opened new camps for undocumented migrants in the Canary Islands. The move comes amid local tensions on the Island in response to continuing migrant arrivals from Africa. These camps have been open since February they are on Gran Canaria, Tenerife, and Fuerteventura Islands, these camps hold up to 7,000 migrants.

The government says it does not want to transfer the migrants to mainland Spain because that could encourage more migrants to attempt to come to Europe.

The amount of migrants arriving in Gran Canaria has triggered off protests against the migrants, some of these protests are backed by the far right party Vox, which said of the "Migratory Invasion." "The situation in the Canary Islands is unsustainable." The leader of Vox tweeted last week. "There is a fear in homes, violence on the streets and the invasion promoted by the government continues. Many people write to me saying they are desperate." Meanwhile small boats with migrants in them are still landing on the beaches of southern Spain.

COVID-19 update in Spain

The Alicante comes under the government of Valencia, from the 1st of March the government of Valencia will be relaxing the strict measures that were put in place on the 21st of January. Sidewalk Cafes and bars in the region will be able to open until 6 pm from 1st March, although the interior of cafes and bars will remain closed.

A maximum of 4 people per table will be permitted, while masks will be obligatory when not eating or drinking.

Also 4 people from different households will be able to meet in public an increase of 2. Meeting in private homes is not allowed. Stores will be open until 8pm rather than 6pm with 50% capacity. Parks and gardens will reopen while the capacity in religious spaces will be increased by 50%.

The curfew will remain in place from 10 pm till 6am. While the lockdown of the region i.e.: - No one can enter or leave the region without justified reason is staying in place. These measures will stay in place for another 15 days.

Up until the 3rd March Spain has administered 4,059,320 jabs, also as from the 4th March it has 3,136,321 cases and 70,247 deaths.

Australia

Here A Swastika - There A Swastika!

The media here in Australia has been awash lately with stories of swastikas appearing all over the country.

There have been cases reported of swastika flags being flown in various places - from a flagpole in a private garden to a mobile phone mast, both in the State of Victoria.

Another newspaper report ran photos of a man wearing a swastika armband, casually shopping for fruit and veg in a Melbourne market, outraging the other shoppers who witnessed this.

And in New South Wales, at a Westfield Corporation owned shopping centre, more shoppers became outraged when they spotted a store display mannequin sporting a face mask that just happened to have the Reichsadler Eagle emblazoned on it... Needless to say the aforementioned mask was quickly withdrawn from public view and the usual apologies given.

Interesting to note that the co-founder of the Westfield Corporation is of Jewish decent and the 4th richest man in Australia.

In Far North Queensland, it was reported that a couple who were out hiking, came across an entrance to a rural property, the gate of which was adorned with swastikas and lightning bolts constructed from lengths of pipe.

Upon sighting these offensive symbols, the 71-year-old woman said the incident "turned her stomach" as the couple's parents just happened to have survived the Holocaust.

Not to be outdone, Perth news ran reports of a serious incident involving a man with a swastika painted on his forehead, armed with a can of deodorant and a lighter, which he used as a flamethrower to attack an indigenous mother and her daughter. There have been no follow up reports on what would have been a callous attack, but the photos of this man do not seem quite right - spot the difference anyone?

Could it be mere coincidence that all these supposed sightings are happening at the same time as the big push to ban the swastika and other symbols of the so called "Far-Right" from being displayed in public places has been gathering pace; that also calls for the designation of Far-Right groups to be classified as terrorist organisations?

The person spearheading this push, Dr. Dvir Abramovich, is the chairman of the Anti-Defamation Committee and also, maybe not surprisingly, of Jewish descent. He is being ably assisted by Kristina Keneally (née Kerscher) who was the 42nd premier of NSW and the first female to reach that position. She has recently been vociferously outspoken on the pressing need to ban 'far right' groups mentioning Blood & Honour as one such group that should be classed as a terrorist organisation and banned as it is in some other countries.

As every new swastika sighting is reported Dr Abramovich becomes increasingly vocal and is getting nearer to his ultimate goal.

On March 3rd, 2021, the Victorian Parliamentary Committee recommended making the display of Nazi Symbols, such as the swastika, a crime. They cited the recent incident of the storming of the US Capital Building of which much footage was shown of violence from persons purported to be Neo-Nazis with one such wearing a "Camp Auschwitz" T-Shirt. Furthermore, the Committee stated that The Australian Security Intelligence Organisation (ASIO) had in 2020 directed 40 per cent of counter surveillance into "Far Right Extremists".

So, after 3 years of campaigning to get the display of symbols of 'hate' banned in public here in Australia, Dr Abramovich said "I will be lying if I didn't admit to shedding tears of joy when I read the report."

Additionally, the Australian Federal Government will soon be adding its first Far-Right group to its terrorist list.: - The Sonnenkrieg Division.

Kristina Keneally welcomed the news but said... "Australia is the last of the 'Five Eyes' countries to designate a right-wing extremist group as a terrorist organisation". "There are several other right-wing extremist groups, some with direct links to Australian groups, that have already been proscribed by our Five Eyes partners.

The push continues.

Colin Jordan Revisited

"In rigorously resisting all the befuddling and distracting talk about uniting the "right wing" with us as part of it, we must from this moment onwards completely and constantly disown this term as applied so commonly, wrongly and harmfully to us. This rejection is a vital part of the purification and clarification necessary for the creation of the combat efficient force we must have for our victory. We National Socialists are no part of Democracy's political pattern, right, left or centre. We are wholly outside it and wholly against it, and intent on declaring and demonstrating this. As part of the rejection of the right-wing label, along with calls for our involvement in right wing unity, we have firmly to resist and sternly to expose and denounce the recurrent disposition of those who accept the label to fancy that there is some easier way to better things by fondly grasping at some right-wing figure of Democracy's old parties as some shining white hope of salvation." These are the words of the late, great Colin Jordan but how relevant are they to National Socialist's today?

When the alien Boris Johnson was elected Prime Minister (see 'The Emblem' no. 9) in November 2020 Tommy Robinson (Stephen Yaxley-Lennon) and Paul Golding, leader of Britain First, were clamouring to join the Conservative Party, and urging their supporters to do the same. For some this was a surprise but take a closer look and you will find that Robinson has been funded to the tune of £5,000 per month by American billionaire, Robert Shillman and Golding's party engaged in 'Solidarity Patrols' in 2015 in the Golders Green area of London. Why shouldn't these two gentlemen be "cosying up" to a party where 85% of their MP's belong to 'Conservative Friends of Israel'? Remember "He who pays the piper, calls the tune".

In my opinion Colin Jordan is rightfully scathing of Democracy. "One person, one vote" is a wonderful idea in theory, but only the very naive would believe that the ordinary man, or woman, in the street, who dutifully puts their X in the box has as much political clout as a major donor to one or other of the main parties. Yes, it is complete nonsense. "Then the Ayrans who have trod, worked, fought for the land, and died here time out of time, bringing about a unique blend of blood and soil, will become a dissipated, demoralised, dwindling minority in what was once their homeland, facing extinction by reduced reproduction and miscegenation. That is our destiny under Democracy, the death system of the Ayran" to quote Jordan once again.

Today the word 'Fascist' is used as a slur against any individual or group that other people disagree with. Donald Trump, a Capitalist, is a "fascist", 'Black Lives Matter', a Marxist movement, are "fascists", BNSM are "fascists" the list goes on and on. Unfortunately, people get 'Fascism' and 'National Socialism' confused, sometimes believing it is one and the same. Fascism, despite its merits, is not founded on Race, and is not pan-Ayran. Instead, it is only a reformed and vitalised nationalism for the old geographical, nation state. National Socialism is, conversely, founded on and insuperable from the conception of the folk or racial community. This determines the nation, and this delineates its citizenship. With National Socialism, as Arnold Leese put it, "Race is the basis of politics".

'The Emblem' is a National Socialist journal. Written by, and, for, National Socialists. It is not for the opportunists or pseudo-Nationalists. Do not follow the false prophets and remember the words of George Santayana "Those who do not learn from history are doomed to repeat it". Hail the New Dawn!!

Vaccine and Roadmap

Will They Let have Us Have Our Freedom

The vaccine program has seen roughly a third of the UK population vaccinated with their first dose already.

The government have set out the roadmap for lifting of restrictions and lockdown. Even with so many people already having been vaccinated, they are taking the slow cautious way out.

The start happened on Monday the 8th with schools re-opening with a change for those in secondary school. They are expected to always wear masks in school and to be tested twice a week. Other changes to the restrictions were that Care home residents will be allowed one regular visitor provided they are tested and wear PPE, people can leave home for recreation outdoors such as a coffee or picnic with their household or support bubble, or with one person outside their household.

There are another 4 dates with different restrictions being lifted. The next is on March 29th, then April 12th, May 17th and finally if they stick to the roadmap, they have set out we could be restriction free by June 21st.

The day after the first restrictions were lifted one of the scientific advisors told MP's that the restrictions could not be sped up as the five-week gap in between each step was needed to make sure that the easing does not cause more cases. Yet as we reach each step even more people will have been vaccinated so the risk factor will be decreasing.

All being well by the summer we can look forward to getting together again. We already know with them now testing children that we will see a rise in cases, the worry will be if the scientist panic and advise the government to stop or slow down the easing of restrictions. But hopefully the people of this land will wake up by then and say no more.

Landmark Ruling, Patriots Should Be protected

So, a Judge has ruled that English Nationalists can be protected against discrimination in the same way followers of religion or philosophical belief are. But expressing anti-Muslim opinions as a part of their beliefs disqualifies them from protection because it infringes on the rights of others. I would have thought that any English Nationalist would feel the same about migrants.

So, in other words you are not entitled to protection in any real term and never would be, just another example of the warped democracy the Liberal state has become. While the person who took this to court, might feel that he has won his case sadly that is not the case. I am sure it was done with good intentions, but I cannot help but feel the money spent fighting this case could have been put to better use preferably buying some land or even for fighting in the next general election.

We know we will not gain power this way but there is a massive mood change among our people so anything that gets the people's attention is good and can be used to gain support. People need to realise if they do not already know that there is no point in trying to get a fair hearing in the courts because they are run and controlled by the corrupt government.

The only way forward is to form an alternative society has we often say at B.M. Meetings run silent run deep. I have come to the realisation that those who pull the strings of the traitors. Hate the white race above all others and those puppets are in for a shock if they ever achieve their aim of destroying us, you traitors will go to once you are of no use to them.

Houses Going To Waste

Half a million homes across the UK are being left unused, as the number of families living in temporary accommodation continues to rise every year. While the Government boasts of efforts to build more houses which are being built mainly out in the countryside or in Market Towns.

Campaigners say increasing homelessness shows something is still going wrong. Yes, there is something wrong and that is these houses are beyond the means of most people. Those who can scrape enough money to allow them to buy end up with huge debts and risk losing all if their circumstances change. But this has been part of the globalists plans get people into debt they can never pay off and people will not have the time or will to worry about other things.

The people who keep saying we need more social housing blame the government but never mention the number of migrants arriving every single day and will try to tell you that is not the problem and deny the simple maths regarding this.

Well, that is not true if you have ten houses for those who need them but there are twenty people needing to be housed. Allowing twenty migrants to enter the Country makes no sense at all and worse still they get housed before those born here. Then to say giving those homes to the migrants made no difference to the housing problem is nonsense. That the endless stream of those coming here does not add to this problem and shows you that they really do not care about our folk.

Not satisfied with destroying the white race they also want to destroy our Country and there will be little or no land for farming another part of the globalist plans for world domination.

The answer to this crisis is to stop all immigration apart from fellow whites of European descent who have skills that we need and to begin to build social housing in Cities. Where possible this should work to put a halt to migration and to repatriate those that are here would lessen the number of houses that are needed.

They should be for people to rent rather than buy and with secure tenancy for life. Most only buy because there is no security when renting at present or because they believe all the hype about owning your home and do not realise what a millstone a mortgage can become.

Properties that are not used or have been vacant for long periods should be seized by the state to be used to help with the situation. There are plenty of empty properties about that are foreign owned or owned by people who do not use them or need them. A good example is in Westminster most of the flats above shops there are not in use and will not be for whatever reason. Of course, none of this will happen until there is a change in the way this country is governed the only answer is a National Socialist Government.

It is not just old houses wasted

We Will Have Our Country Back!

BRITAIN is in rapid decline. Decades of subversion by the political Left and stupidity or worse from the political centre, the liberals and conservative Right has totally undermined the spirit and structure of what was once Great Britain. Successive governments have duped the British people into accepting the constant influx of foreigners, immigrants, economic migrants, asylum-seekers foreign investors, foreign companies, foreign banks, foreign customs, foreign cultures, foreign religions, foreign attitudes. Successive governments have embroiled Britain in un-winnable overseas conflicts, wars which do not offer Britain security but leave the UK vulnerable.

Large scale non-white immigration coupled with years of almost state-sponsored multi-culturalism, rampant materialism, and mind-numbing popular entertainment has undermined traditional British values and turned the ordinary British worker into a soulless consumer, addicted to fast food and the slop poured out by decadent, multi-national media, hooked into international brand-named industries. The time has come to call a halt to the betrayal and corruption of the British people by these so-called democratic forces.

The time has come to force radical changes with radical ideas of British National Socialism.
